

THE 2020-21 CSU WRITING PROJECT INSTITUTE FOR SUSTAINABLE TEACHING

Sustainable teaching is about the business of reclaiming teaching as sacred work rather than TGIF-ing our way through half of our waking lives.

It's about claiming the right to thrive, not just survive.

And that's what makes it radical.

The Institute for Sustainable Teaching (IST) is a CSU Writing Project (CSUWP) program devoted to helping you “fill the well” as a teacher by giving you space and time for professional renewal and personal restoration. We will work together in a small community to explore the concept of “sustainable teaching” and to develop mindfulness and resiliency practices to help you stay in this profession for the long haul.

APPLICATION DEADLINE: Because the IST is geared toward development of a small, intimate community, we’re limiting it to 20 participants. Applications will be reviewed on a rolling basis. The deadline for best consideration is Monday, April 27; the hard deadline is Friday, May 15. Applicants will be notified of their status by Friday, May 29. Complete the brief application here: <https://tinyurl.com/toteehf>

WHO SHOULD APPLY?

The IST is open to twenty K-16 educators in all content areas, including teachers, counselors, instructional coaches, deans, administrators, community educators--basically anyone who’s connected to the profession. You should apply if:

- you just don’t know how much longer you can last in this profession, even though you still love it deep down
- you’re experiencing burnout or feel it coming on
- you’re willing to take emotional and intellectual risks oriented toward healing and growth in community
- you’re committed to writing, reading, reflecting, and thinking hard together with others
- you’re professionally responsible; that is, you’ll attend all sessions in the summer and throughout the school year, complete the reading, and participate in all activities
- you’re determined to “get better”--in both the sense of healing and the sense of progress. (As Anne Lamott would say, you might need to whine for a while, but you can’t be “whiny-baby.”)
- you’re excited about the possibility--though not the obligation--of being part of a growing community of sustainable teaching educators who are contributing to the education profession at large via publication, conference presentations, and other professional opportunities

WHERE / WHEN WILL THE INSTITUTE TAKE PLACE?

Location: CSU campus

Dates:

- Summer Weeklong Institute: August 3-8 (9:00-3:30)
- Saturday Seminars: September 12, November 7, February 27, April 24 (All seminars take place at CSU from 9:00-3:30.)

HOW MUCH DOES THE INSTITUTE COST? WHAT WILL YOU RECEIVE FOR PARTICIPATING?

- There is no cost to participate in the institute. Applicants who are selected to participate will receive: a $500 stipend. Participants often use these funds to offset costs related to travel, meals, and/or 4-6 CSU optional graduate credits (4 credits available during summer and 2 during school year). NOTE: To receive the stipend, you must attend all sessions, participate fully in all activities, and complete reading and writing assignments as described in the program requirements section below.
- 3 free books: The Gifts of Imperfection by Brene Brown, The Garden at Night: Burnout and Breakdown in the Teaching Life by Mary Rose O'Reilley, and The Courage to Teach by Parker Palmer.
- Upon completion of the institute, you will be considered a member of the CSU Writing Project.

WHAT WILL YOU DO?

The institute structure is very straightforward, as follows:

Mornings

Writing and sharing

Whole-group time to discuss professional reading and and explore the theory of “sustainable teaching”

Mindfulness and resilience workshop activities

Afternoons

Restoration Time: Quiet time for personal writing, gentle body movement and breathwork, personal reading (anything you want, not just school stuff!)

Whole-group workshops

Intentional closing activities

WHAT ARE THE PROGRAM REQUIREMENTS?

Pre-institute: Read The Gifts of Imperfection by Brene Brown and discuss reading in an online forum

Summer Weeklong Institute (August 3-8, 9:00-3:30): Attend every day, all day. / Complete required reading and writing tasks. / Participate fully in all institute activities.

Saturday Seminars: Attend all 4 sessions (dates above). / Read The Courage to Teach by Parker Palmer. / Participate in online forum between sessions. / Participate fully in all activities on day of seminar.
